The Women Legacy Awards recognizes extraordinary women who demonstrate leadership, resilience, and a commitment to building lasting legacies. The nomination and selection process is managed by the STYLETAINMENT Executive Team, ensuring a fair and thorough approach. Here's how it works:

1. Submission

- Individuals, organizations, or community members can submit nominations for women who exemplify excellence and impactful leadership.
- To nominate, participants must complete the official nomination form and provide a summary of the nominee's accomplishments, supporting materials, and references where applicable.
- Submissions are typically made through STYLETAINMENT's official platform during the designated nomination period, which will be announced annually.

2. Screening

- All submitted nominations are reviewed by the STYLETAINMENT Executive Team to ensure they meet the eligibility requirements and align with the mission of the Women Legacy Awards.
- This process ensures that each nominee is considered for the correct category and evaluated based on their contributions to their community or industry.

3. Initial Voting Round

- A panel of judges, including STYLETAINMENT leaders and community experts, reviews the screened nominations.
- Judges evaluate nominees based on leadership, innovation, community impact, and the nominee's ability to inspire and uplift others.
- The top nominees in each category are selected to move forward.

4. Nomination Announcement

- The results of the initial voting round are tallied, and the top nominees are officially selected as finalists for the Women Legacy Awards.
 - All nominees are invited to attend the Women Legacy Awards in anticipation of being the selected winner in their category. All nominees are celebrated and highlighted across STYLETAINMENT's platforms in preparation for the awards ceremony.

5. Final Voting

- In the final voting stage, the STYLETAINMENT Executive Team and select judges evaluate the finalists and select a winner in each category.
- The two most exceptional finalist are chosen as recipients of the prestigious Ada Award, the highest honor of the Women Legacy Awards.
